Chile Gives Welcome To Ike Visit

U.S. President Speaks to Solons

SANTIAGO, CHILE, March 1—(UPI)—President Eisenhower was emerging today as a spokesman for South America in the council tables of the major powers.

He also was promoting hemispheric solidarity by emphasizing the talents of Chile's President Jorge Alessandri Rodriguez, Chile and other South American leaders that he will take their views on international affairs to the next summit meeting.

EISENHOWER was expected when he speaks today before a joint session of the Chilean Congress to call for a world-wide truce, a study of a helter-skelter visit to a housing project and hosting a far-well dinner tonight for Alessandri at the U.S. embassy.

Eisenhower was guest of honor last night at the state banquet in Casa Moneda, Alessandri's Presidential Palace. In proposing a toast to his host he bore down so firmly that it seemed to be producing results in South America that he will keep South American opinions in mind when he meets Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the Western allies' leaders in Paris in May.

"I WISH to go to Paris with a clear understanding on the views of our friends in this region," he said. "I am taking along my family-clad dinner guests. While I am too realistic to expect miracles, I do hope that in Paris we may reach some agreements which will lessen the tensions which divide and vex the world."

IOC Court Denies Bricker Appeal

Inter-Organizational Court Monday night denied a Gold-bricker social unit appeal of a previous court decision. The Gold-bricker appealed four counts of negligence in regard to financial indebtedness and rush party procedures on which they had been found guilty.

THE COURT unanimously upheld the original sentence on the four social counts. The social unit was suspended of all off-campus scheduling for a period of 10 weeks.

They were also ordered to present to the IOC court a monthly financial report showing that they had paid cash for all transactions.

Reporter Likes IBM's, They Don't Talk Back

(ACP)—A University of Oklahoma DAILY reporter visited that state's largest IBM lab to check on tales about the "almost human IBM machines which tell almost everything."

Her conclusion: "The machines may be a disappointment in that they can't do round-the-clock work rapidly and cannot tell all," but they have some advantages: "... they can not give back talk, utter 'buts' or give any rambling details."

It is 35 miles south of Los Angeles. It has eight schools with pupils in kindergarten through eighth grade and will need approximately 100 new teachers for 1960-61, Zeyen said.

Navajo Students Given $10 Million Trust Fund

The Navajo tribe has set up a $10 million trust fund to promote the education of its children, a tribal leader reported at Brigham Young University recently.

DILLON PLATERO, a member of the Navajo Tribal Council and chairman of the Navajo Tribal Education Agency, invited Navajo students at BYU. He reported that Navajo parents are checking on the progress of Indian students. He reported that about two-thirds of the Navajo children have to leave the reservation to go to school.

The 80-member council of which Platero is a member is the governing body of the tribe. Through the council and the education committee many programs for aiding students have been set up, the most important of which is the establishment of the $10 million trust fund, the tribal leader said.

The fund supports or helps to support students in college or in vocational training, Platero continued. It also serves as a loan program from which students can borrow money to attend school, and they are allowed to choose their own college.

ACCORDING TO Platero, other programs provide clothing for the children so that they can dress as well as the other children in the public schools and for boarding students on the peripheries of towns where the children go to school.

The money used for these programs is derived from royalties from natural mineral resources located on the Navajo lands, he said.

RECENTLY THE tribe has invited school districts from Arizona and surrounding states to build schools within the reservation in an effort to educate as many of the Indian children as possible. The schools are coming in at a pretty fast rate, the visitor said.

'Interaction' Theme of Russ Exchange

"Interaction" with Russian youths will be the key to the student exchange of American and Soviet youth groups being conducted this summer by Brigham Young University Travel Study Dept.

BYU TRAVEL study is one of three American organizations that will be able to take students on such a "tour" of the U.S.S.R., leaving in late June and returning in early September.

Actually, the trip will not be a tour, but a study trip in Russian language and culture. On the boat taking them to the Soviet Union, the students will meet in seminars on politics, language and other phases of Russian life.

TWO OF THE weeks the group will spend in the Soviet Union will be spent in contact ing Komsomol and other Soviet youth groups. The final three weeks of the trip will be spent in a vacation camp with over 1000 Russians.

"The chance to stop in one place and talk with the Russians instead of traveling from place to place snapping pictures is something you don't get on other programs," according to Winston Otterson, BYU instructor in Russian.

ELEVEN STUDENTS will be taken in the BYU group. However, there are only a few places left. They must have at least two years of college and be under 30 years of age. Cost of the trip, which will also include 10 days in other East European countries, will be $1475.

Korean Visitors Tour Campus After Olympics

Two members of the Korean Olympic Committee, Kwang Sung Oh and Man Tai Park, were visitors at Brigham Young University—the American university they had seen—on Friday morning.

ENROUTE TO New York City, the two visitors stopped in Provo with BYU student Bel Sook Shin, 20, from Korea, who also had attended the winter games at Squaw Valley.

With Mr. Shim acting as an interpreter, they said they thought Squaw Valley was a very beautiful place with a nice view, but it was also a very expensive place. They also were impressed with the transportation and communication systems set up especially for the Olympic games, they said.

Park, 26, who is chairman of the directors of the Korean Athletic Association, this was his first visit to the Winter Olympics. Mr. Park is a reporter with the Young Nam daily newspaper in Taegu, Korea, and also a delegate to the International Amateurs' Athletic Federation Congress. He participated as a reporter at the Second Asian Games held in Manila, Philippines.

WHEN QUESTIONED about intercollegiate sports in Korea, the visitors said the Korean schools played about the same games as those played in America—basketball, football, plus long-distance running and judo.

Mr. Oh felt that the Korean Games had been a means of bridging international relations. He said he was sure it had encouraged good feelings between other countries and Korea since their country joined the Olympics in 1948.
